A Community Project...

...In Remote Working For Community Development

Community developers who want to see remote working drive local impact. We're solving for connection to remote workers for companies (pointing to service providers), lack of a real world community for talent (mapping offline communities), and adapting to the rapid rate of change for communities (chapter leads).

Now with 73 local drivers of that.

Some Stats...

Scary ones, and the ones that can help us. We need to act.

Stuff We Tried

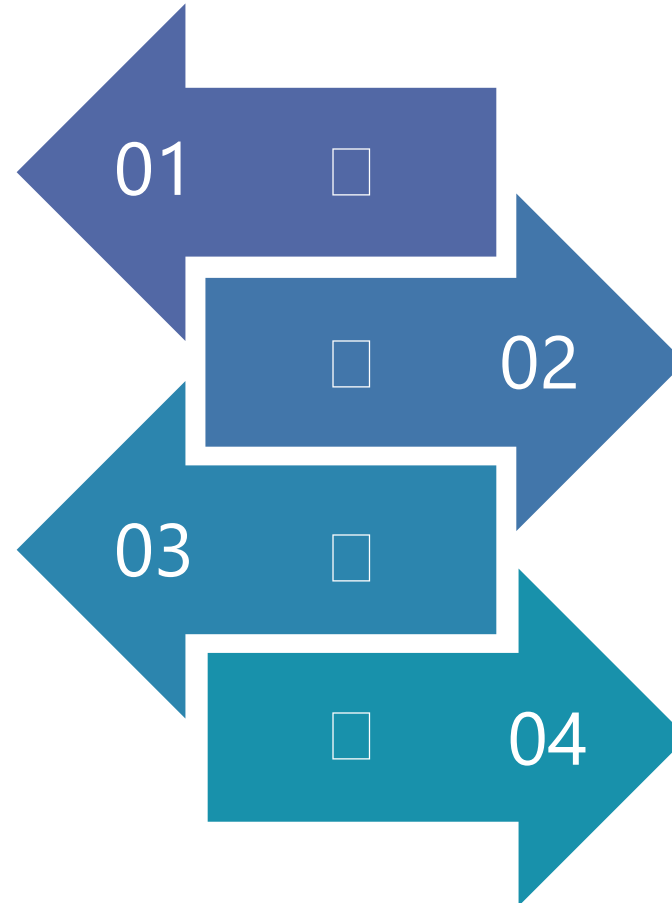

Over a year or two, we tried lots of things in lots of areas

Targeting Commuters

If they're commuting, they don't have the option to work remote with their current employers. So we could either convince their employers, or find alternative jobs.

Found The Jobs!

Going European first, as there are 100s of jobs already there, but rural areas weren't hearing about them, they didn't seem 'real'.

Targeting Companies in the Capital

Hard to get to the right person and then required a very commercial conversation. They're not locally focused, they can't be.

Surveys/skills mapping

Surveys like this require cross-collaboration which takes a lot of time.

Goals

With crowdsourced resources, chapters....

Town Tasters

Open days for towns, 'your own concierge'. Operational in Dingle, Abbeyfeale, Gort & Valentia Island.

Reskilling

110 people trained up in the skill of remote work. Operation Five on the way!

Awareness

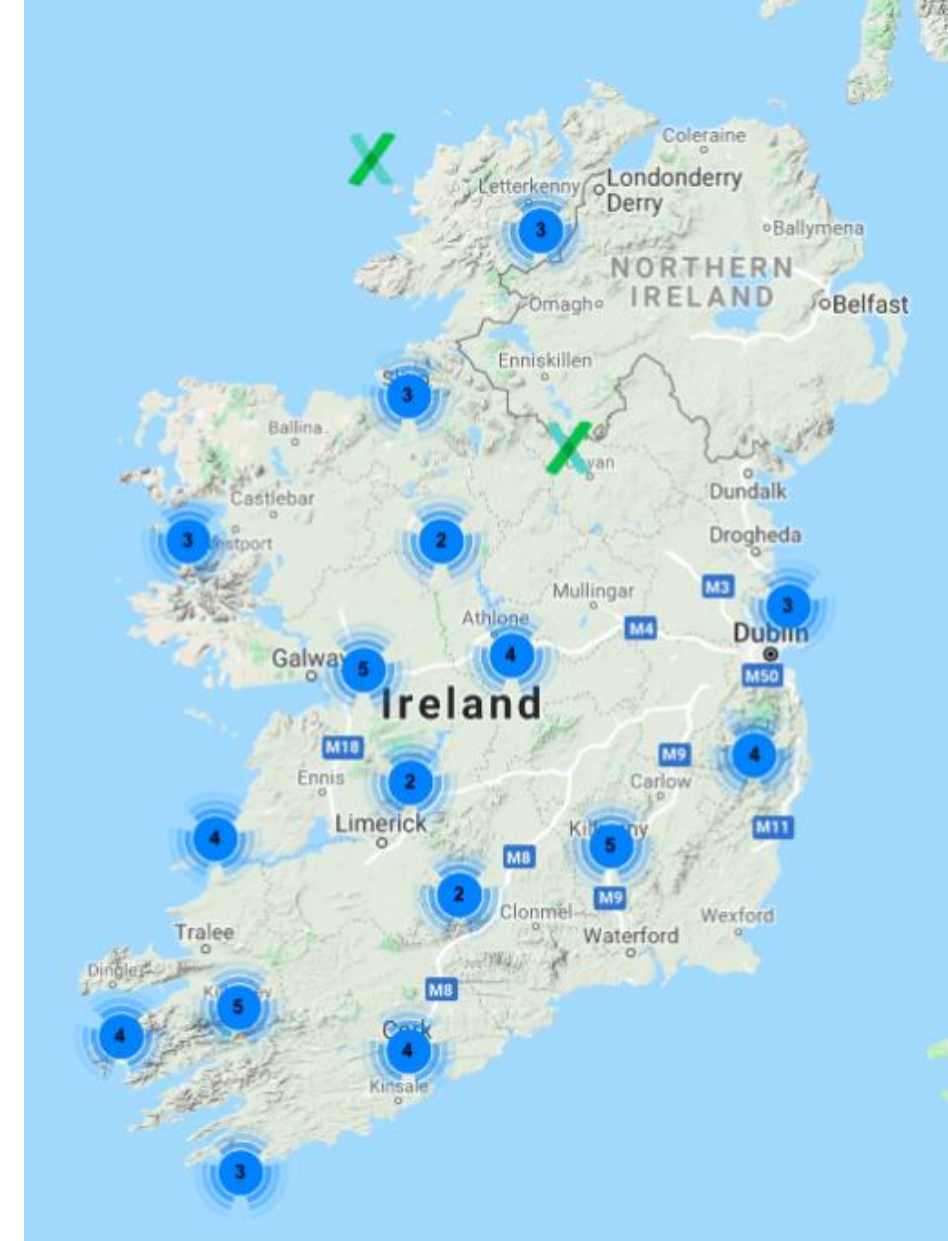

Schools packs, posters, careers events & business expos.

Nomad Trail

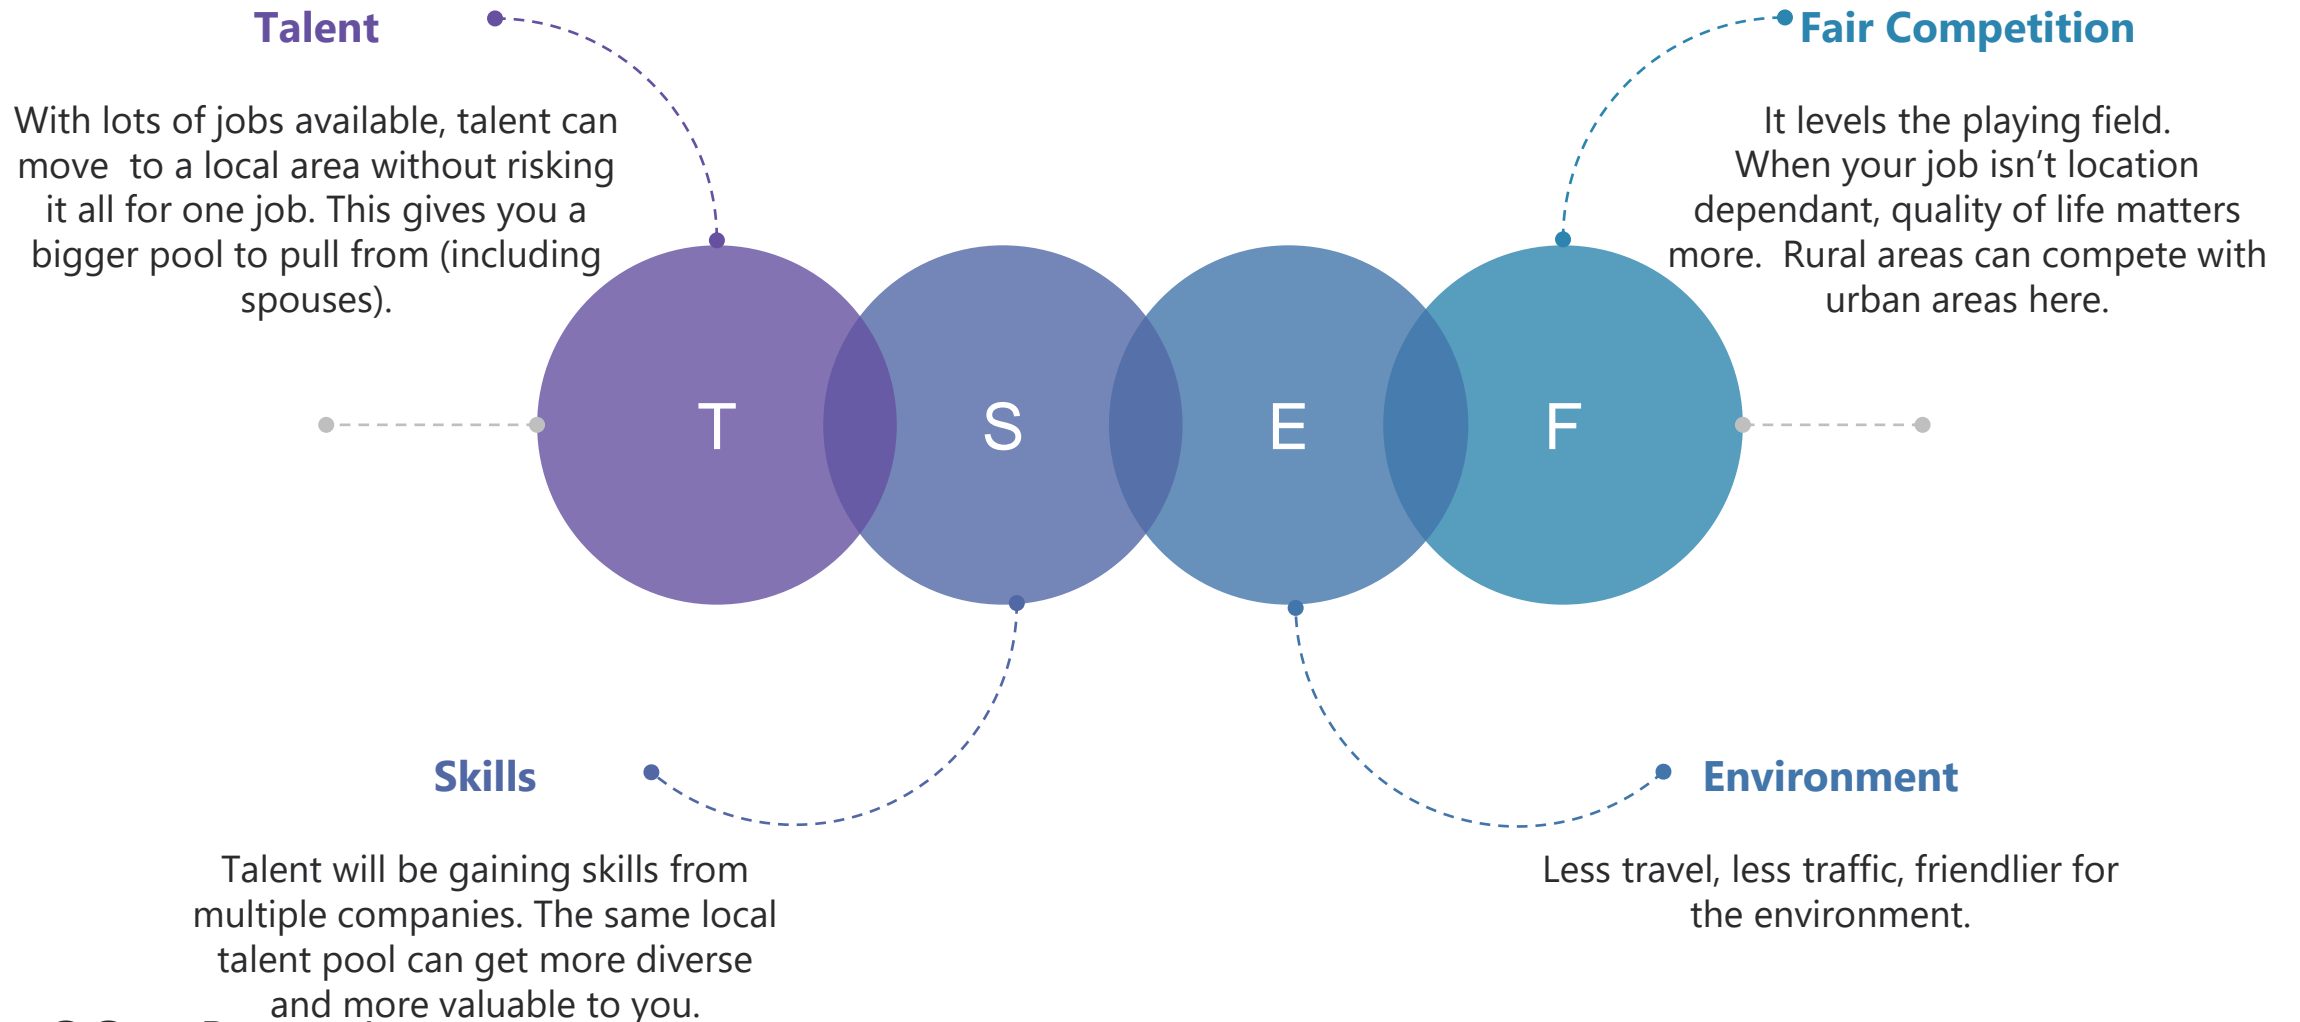

Ireland's first live and work packages in Sligo, Mayo & Donegal - encompassing coworking spaces, accommodation and cultural activities.

Events

Spaces for companies, talent and communities to get together. Castlebar, Ashford, Tullamore, Sligo, Dublin
